DULLNESS IN STEEL MARKET TUNING FORK

Stocks Stand Still, and Brokers Make No Effort to Encourage Trading Pending Rate Decision.

LEAVE EXCHANGE EARLY

Members Prefer to Discuss Polo or Anything Rather Than Business, Dealings in Bonds More Active, Foreign Exchange Holds Firm.

BY BROADWAY WALL

New York, June 15.—Stocks stood still to-day.

At the opening steel common was 62 bid and offered at 62 1/2. For several minutes no trade took place. This was the tuning fork of the day's dullness.

Once upon a time Monday's market was an event, and prices boiled or sagged according to speculative temper.

Members of the exchange were left without doing anything. Every one that could departed from the street early, while junior partners who were not so completely satisfied to stick it out until a check was discussed, indulged in a polo or anything rather than the stock market.

No Encouragement to Trading.

Nothing doing, word came from Washington that the rate case would not be settled for several days at least, and as it places the financial district to think that much depends upon this decision, no attempts were made to encourage trading.

The Supreme Court met without handling down any important decisions, and the only live news of the day was furnished by the standard issues.

Foreign exchange held firm around Saturday's high figure, and in view of more gold was taken for a local steamer.

Quite the best news of the day came from the crop regions, where the weather was favorable for the cutting of wheat.

Railroad earnings for the first week in June for Louisville and Nashville were $2,400, and Toledo, Grand and Western, $2,000.

New York, June 15.—The judgment of the speculative community was held in view today, and stock market price movements were not so active as they were several days ago.

The price of wheat was steady, but the price of cotton was down, and the price of sugar was up.

The price of gold was steady, and the price of silver was up.

The price of iron was steady, and the price of steel was up.

The price of copper was steady, and the price of tin was up.

The price of lead was steady, and the price of zinc was up.

The price of nickel was steady, and the price of cobalt was up.

The price of manganese was steady, and the price of chromium was up.

The price of vanadium was steady, and the price of niobium was up.

The price of tantalum was steady, and the price of tungsten was up.

The price of molybdenum was steady, and the price of selenium was up.

The price of tellurium was steady, and the price of bismuth was up.

The price of antimony was steady, and the price of arsenic was up.

TAFT STANDS FIRM FOR CONSERVATISM

He Attacks Recall of Judicial Decisions and Defends Limitation on Hasty Actions of Electorate.

Cambridge, Mass., June 15.—The unabridged exercise of limitations upon hasty action of a majority of the electorate, now interposed by vested prerogatives of the Supreme Court and amended the Constitution, was defended by former President William Howard Taft in an address before the Phi Beta Kappa Fraternity of Harvard University to-day.

Mr. Taft's defense of the limitations and immediate reference to changes urged by certain political leaders to qualify existing personal and property rights and increase governmental control over the individual. He attacked the recall of judicial decisions, and inquired his argument that the constitutional and judicial obstructions to impulsive action at the polls were not inconsistent with popular government.

He held for Grand Jury. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
